President's Message

Dear Friends,

I hope this newsletter finds you in good health. Your board of directors has been doing a tremendous job this year promoting reading and raising money for the library. We have had an amazing series of events so far this year. In addition, book sale proceeds are up, as are the number of volunteers who assist at the sales. Our bank account is healthier than it has ever been and participation by community members at CCFOL events also has increased. I encourage you to join us at one of our board meeting: 6:30 p.m. on the 3rd Tuesday of the month in the community room in the library.

If you have looked at the Culver City News or the Friends' web site (www.ccfol.org) you have seen the types of events that have attracted so much community attention recently. In June, School District Superintendent Myrna Rivera Cote read to an enthusiastic young audience and the fascinating "Mary Pickford" lecture by Timeline Films drew a capacity crowd. July story time was a real scream: who knew the library would let wild animals loose inside the building!?! The kids loved it when the lions read to them. We also had a "sneak preview" of excerpts of The Actor's Gang production of Gulliver's Travels. To top off July, Friends' members received free admission to the Star ECO Station and a special private program. Wild animals inside! Wild animals outside! All promoting reading and helping us increase membership. Thank you to ECO Station and Marla Wolkowitz for collaborating on this fun event!

For the few of you out there who have not yet joined in the fun — it's not too late! There is still plenty to do in the coming weeks as the adventure continues. August 7th there is a story time at the library with live animals. August the 8th is book discussion group at the library about the book "Born Free." And, of course, the 3rd annual movie "Under the Stars" with internationally acclaimed family film "Born Free" will be August 11 in Veteran's Park. The movie event is always fantastic, so I urge you to attend. Contact me directly at info@ccfol.org if you would like to volunteer the day of the event!

"Culver City Reads" is successful because of the great community support, the energetic volunteers and of course, our generous sponsors. I especially want to thank our major sponsors, Sony Pictures Entertainment, Culver City News and AT&T.

I look forward to seeing each of you at one of our upcoming events!

DONATIONS DO DOUBLE DUTY

Most of the books that are donated are sold in our book sales to raise money for the library. But the Friends also give some of them to selected institutions and charities who request them. Places like hospitals, shelters and social centers constantly need reading material and we happy to let them share in the generosity of our donors.

Book Sale Chairman Wayne Pulliam is seen giving a selection of reading material to Jason Bevington of the Westwood Veterans' Hospital to help stock their in-house library. It's a wonderful opportunity to thank those men and women who have served our country so bravely.

The last official event of the evening was the live auction, featuring such fabulous items as a one-of-a-kind animation cell by local animation artist and author, Martha Sigall, "Chief for a Day" with Culver City Police Chief Don Pedersen and ice cream made and personally delivered by Mayor Alan Corlin. A fabulous time was had by all!

A ROOM WITH A CREW

To a lot of patrons, a trip to the library isn't complete without a visit to the Friends' ongoing book sale room to check out what's new. Keeping the room supplied with fresh stock takes commitment, time and energy. We'd like to thank our volunteers, Margaret Yoshina, Heib Malcom, Wayne Pulliam and Steve Wieber for devoting several hours each week to keeping our sale room filled with fresh titles. Stop by the next time you're visiting the library and see what treasures await you!

FRIENDS HELP HOST TRIBUTE TO AUTHOR

KCRW's Bookworm, Michael Silverblatt, interviewed Susan Straight at a special event at the Library on April 18th. Her latest novel, A Million Nightingales, for which she has been named as a Finalist for this year's Book Prize, is the powerful and moving story of a mixed-race young woman set in early 1800s Louisiana. The evening was part of the Los Angeles Times Festival of Books in co-sponsorship with the County of Los Angeles Public Library system.

Partner with the Friends

We are seeking additional businesses in the community that would like to partner with us to provide discounts to our members. If you are a business owner or know of a company that might be interested in working with us, please email Alan at info@ccfol.org.

Growing up in Riverside, where she still lives, Straight has been able to use her love of language and story, and her experiences with the widely diverse ethnic mix of people in Riverside, to create works which explore the dynamics of race and culture in America, both historically and in contemporary life. Almost universally praised by critics, her readership is large and growing.

The Friends contributed the refreshments which were enjoyed after the event and were on hand to sell the author's book, which Ms. Straight autographed. We hope Culver City readers will check out her books, either at bookstores or in the library.

CULVER CITY READS 2007

Born Free: A Lioness of Two Worlds

By Joy Adamson

It's hard to believe we are nearing the end of the third year of Culver City Reads! Every year, this lively and fun-spirited program gets people excited about reading – and raises money for the Culver City Julian Dixon Library. More specifically, Culver City Reads is a community-wide reading fest sponsored by the Culver City Friends of the Library to promote reading, education, and literacy. This program encourages people of all ages to read the same book and, in the process, raise money to support and improve the programs, facilities and equipment at the library.

This year we have had a summer full of safari adventures as we enjoy the highly acclaimed bestseller “Born Free: A Lioness of Two Worlds” by Joy Adamson. The photographs to the right will give you just a taste of the costumes, cats and literary lions that roamed Culver City these past weeks.

It's not too late to join the fun! Get a copy of the book and participate in the rest of Culver City Reads 2007! The Friends of the Library have made copies of "Born Free" available for purchase at the library for just $15; all proceeds from the sale of the book go directly to support the Library. The book is also available for checkout at the library.

Over the course of the next few weeks, you can join the Friends for a safari-themed story hour with costumed and live animals at the library; or share your insights about the book at a professionally facilitated evening discussion group at the library volunteer at any of the Born Free events.

Whatever else you do, be sure to join us when the program culminates in an “under the stars” screening of the movie Born Free at Veterans Park. You can volunteer at one of the game booths, dress up in khakis or an animal costume for the costume parade or just relax on a blanket on the grass and watch a fantastic movie on a giant screen under the stars.

Help us make this truly a summer of adventure and learning!

Literary Lions Kick Off Culver City Reads 2007

If you were at the Culver City Farmers Market on May 22, you couldn't help but notice three lions manning (or is it lioning?) the Friends of the Library booth. President Alan Corlin, Vice President Kevin Commins, and Board Member Sandi Levin donned fake fur to kick off this summer's Culver City Reads selection, Joy Adamson's Born Free. A variety of safari and lion-motif merchandise were available at the stand, as well as the book Born Free.

Many thanks to Sharon Zeitlin, Emily Hirohama, Elaine Hirohama, Gerald and Bette Sallus, Martha and Sol Sigall, Janet Hoult, Patty Krause for their help with the booth, for taking turns in the lion costumes, and for spreading the word about this year's program, which promises to be the best yet.
